

2016 EIFLE WINNER

From the Institute for Financial Literacy

2016 Educator of the Year Rod Griffin

Rod Griffin has been involved in financial literacy for over twenty years. Being the first to write a credit advice column for Experian, he is a pioneer of online financial education. He now serves as the Director of Public Education for Experian and "is responsible for Experian's consumer education programs." Rod not only builds partnerships with national organizations in support of financial literacy, he also makes himself available to the consumer. He often speaks at conferences around the country about financial literacy and hosts several informational sessions on various online platforms.

Interested in reading Rod's articles on financial literacy? Follow the link:
<http://www.experian.com/blogs/news/author/rod-griffin/>

Each year, the Institute for Financial Literacy presents the EIFLE Awards at the Annual Conference on Financial Education. EIFLE Awards recognize individuals and organizations that have shown exceptional innovation, dedication and commitment to the field of Financial Education.

The Annual Conference on Financial Education provides professional development opportunities for individuals who work with financial literacy education. The Conference offers attendees the opportunity to learn about current trends, develop funding strategies and advance the cause of financial education.

What we learn with pleasure we never forget.
- Alfred Mercier

Take a Look at our EIFLE Hall of Fame:
<http://eifleawards.org/>